

Accessibility Statement

Last updated: July 28, 2026

The Protectorate is committed to ensuring digital accessibility for all visitors, including people with disabilities. We believe everyone should be able to access the information, resources, and services available through our website regardless of the technology they use or their individual abilities.

Our Commitment

We strive to design, develop, and maintain our website in accordance with recognized accessibility best practices and the Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (WCAG) 2.2 Level AA wherever practical. Accessibility is an ongoing process, and we are continually working to improve the usability and accessibility of our digital content.

Accessibility Features

Our website is designed to support a wide range of users and technologies, including:

- Keyboard navigation where supported
- Compatibility with modern web browsers and assistive technologies
- Clear page structure and semantic headings where possible
- Alternative text for meaningful images
- Responsive layouts for desktop, tablet, and mobile devices
- Ongoing improvements to readability and navigation

Ongoing Improvements

We regularly review our website to identify opportunities for improvement and work to address accessibility issues as they are identified. As content is updated and new features are introduced, accessibility considerations are incorporated into our development process.

Third-Party Content

Some pages may include links to or content provided by third-party websites or services. While we encourage our partners to provide accessible experiences, we cannot guarantee the accessibility of content that we do not control.

Feedback

If you experience difficulty accessing any part of this website, encounter an accessibility barrier, or require information in an alternative format, we welcome your feedback.

Please include:

- The page or feature you were trying to access
- A description of the issue
- The assistive technology or browser you were using (if applicable)

We will make reasonable efforts to respond promptly and work toward providing the information or service in an accessible format.
